Spacing Rules

The spacing in Scala’s design should feel airy, with ample white space around text and images to create room to breathe, scan, and understand.

This provides a sense of space for collaboration and growth.

AI Generation

AI-generated content design should adhere to simple shapes while aligning with our brand colors and guidelines. It is essential that no AI-generated design receives approval without a thorough review and green light from the design team.

Additionally, AI should only contribute to a maximum of 60% of the design work to ensure creativity and originality.
